

2018 FUNERAL PRICE SURVEY

Area funeral prices rise modestly

Service	2018 average price	Change since 2016	Price range
Standard funeral	$5,879	+0.73 %	$3,540 – $9,655
Immediate burial	$3,830	+6.10 %	$942 – $5,990
Direct cremation	$1,838	+3.20 %	$675 – $3,190
Urban consumer price index change		+4.61 %

Standard funerals

Consumer prices increased almost 5 percent during the past two years while the average price of a standard funeral increased less than 1 percent. That's welcome news to those preferring the comforting rituals of standard funerals, including embalming, visitation, and a funeral service. The $5,879 average price does not include a casket or cemetery costs, which could easily add $3,000 or more to the total. Once the choice of most families, now a majority of consumers are making less-costly choices.

Immediate burial

The only option of the three basic types of funerals in the survey that exceeded the rise in consumer prices, with an increase of 6.1 percent, was immediate burial. At an average of $3,830, immediate burial shaves $2,000 from the standard funeral average by eliminating embalming, visitation, and a funeral service. The prices include a minimum casket but cemetery costs are extra.

Direct cremation

With an average price of $1,838, direct cremation is the least-costly method of body disposal. It involves transportation of the body, placement in a container of fiberboard or cardboard, cremation and returning the ashes to the family. No embalming, visitation or services are involved unless consumers choose to add them.

Cremation now is the choice of a majority of consumers here and nationwide, and it makes cemetery expenses optional. Many cemeteries have columbaria where consumers may purchase niches in walls inside or outdoors for ashes. Names and dates are inscribed on covers and recorded in the cemetery's records. Other families scatter the ashes in special places or keep them for memorial services later. The chief disadvantage of cremation is the large amount of energy consumed in the cremation process and its negative effect on the environment.

Wide range of prices

The prices charged by each of the 114 providers for the three basic funeral types appear inside. They reflect a wide range of choices. For instance, the highest immediate burial price is six times higher than the lowest in our findings. The highest direct cremation is nearly five times higher than the lowest. The highest standard funeral is nearly three times higher than the lowest.

Not appearing in the detailed chart inside are the prices funeral homes charge for particular services such as embalming, body transport, visitation, vehicle rental, etc. Those prices for all 114 funeral homes are available on the FCA-GKC website, funeralskc.org. Here are the area-wide averages for each of the services:

Averages of individual services
Basic services	$2,136
Embalming	$816
Visitation	$424
Funeral service	$519
Hearse	$413
Limousine	$346
Graveside service	$396
Body preparation	$321

Willed body programs

Two area medical schools accept bodies for use in anatomy classes and research when arranged in advance: The University of Kansas Medical Center, Dept. of Anatomy & Cell Biology and the Kansas City University of Medicine and Biosciences. The bodies are cremated after use, with the ashes returned to families. See the fall, 2014 FCA newsletter on our website for details.

Lowest-cost funerals
among 114 providers

The Funeral Consumers Alliance of Greater Kansas City’s latest survey of prices charged by 114 funeral providers in our area is available for free to consumers. The two least-expensive methods available—direct cremation and immediate burial—are explained on the cover. Below is a listing of the 10 lowest-cost providers in each category. FCA-GKC, a nonprofit consumer organization, does not endorse or recommend individual funeral providers.

How a funeral price
survey comes together

By Kathleen Foster & Ginny Farney, FCA-GKC Board Members

When we were asked to take the lead on this project, neither of us knew how large a task we were about to undertake. The process involved months of research, making phone calls, stuffing envelopes, visiting funeral homes, and compiling data. To streamline the process, we did as much as possible remotely. We began our search online, finding that 14 funeral homes posted their general price lists (GPLs) there. The FCA-GKC applauds them for doing so because most don’t.

We were also pleased with the overwhelming cooperation and support we received from the funeral homes in Greater Kansas City. Almost all responded to our calls for GPLs via mail or email and were quick to help when questions arose. Several funeral directors told us they appreciated the work we do.

Our team still had to travel to collect a few price lists, and for that we owe our volunteers a debt of thanks. Particular gratitude to Jim Fitzpatrick, volunteer and former board member, who showed great tenacity in tracking down our last missing GPL.

We increased the number of funeral homes surveyed, from 95 two years ago to 114. We added listings in Missouri’s Northland and south into Harrisonville. And we grouped the listings by city rather than county.

Next on our to-do list is extending our survey to Topeka. We hope to have that price survey on our website by the end of the year. We also plan to expand the survey into St. Joseph, Jefferson City, and Columbia.

We welcome volunteers to help expand our reach! Call us at 816-561-6322 or email us at fca.gkc@gmail.com. Leave a message and we’ll be in touch.
