

As a member of the Society of Jesus (the Jesuits), Fr. Curran is an ordained Roman Catholic priest. He earned a B.A. in politics from DeSales University, an M.A. in theology from DeSales School of Theology, an M.A. in liberal studies, public policy and government from Georgetown University, a J.D. from the Catholic University of America and an M.B.A. from Saint Joseph's University.

Prior to coming to Rockhurst, Fr. Curran served as associate vice president for university relations and assistant to the president at Regis University in Denver. There, he headed major gifts and corporate relations staff, directed the annual fund and had daily oversight of the university's capital campaign. He also was a religious studies faculty member and a university ministry team member and retreat leader.
